Christening of the "Proteus."

SPEECH MAKING AND FORMALITY.

The Coming Athletic Games on May 30th—A Reward.

(From our Fanwood Correspondent.)

Wednesday of last week was a red letter day at this Institution. It had been decided upon by the boat club as the day when their new boat was to be christened. The day was perfect, Old Sol rising and setting with hardly a cloud obscuring his face during the whole day.

At half past three in the afternoon, both the Educational and Industrial departments pronounced work for the day over, in order that all the pupils might witness the christening. At this appointed time the march to the river began led by President Turner and the President of the "I. M. C." Following was Mr. Bowers escorting Dr. Peet, Mr. Watson with Mrs. Henry; Mr. Baxter with the officers of the Administrative department, and Mr. Hayes with the Teachers. Following came the pupils under the guidance of Messrs. C. Vernon and M. Glynn. The march led to the Institution dock, where the ceremonies were to take place. Here the crew of the "Proteus" was mustered into line. Upon a signal from the Commodore, the President of the Ida Montgomery Circle, who had previously been agreed upon to christen the boat, took her place at the bow in company with one of the crew, while Miss Alice M. Judge, a charming young Miss, sat at the stern with the Captain as flag bearer. At a signal from the Captain, the boat bounded out into the river, to a distance of one hundred feet from shore. Here the bottle, tastefully arranged in blue and white ribbons was seen to wave in the air. With a well directed blow on the bow the bottle went "click," and the contents ran down the bow to the water, and, "I name thee 'Proteus,'" spelled very plainly by the fair damsel, signalized the christening. The oars were again brought into service, and amid fluttering of handkerchiefs on shore, the "Proteus" went over the breakers into the river. The return to the dock was made, and then began the exercises on shore. A programme had been arranged by the Commodore, and it began by the presentation address by Mr. Frank Turner, President of the Protean Society:

"Captain of the Proteus Boat Club, Ladies and Gentlemen:—In behalf of the Protean Society, I, with much pleasure, present the boat to be christened 'Proteus' to you, the Captain of the Proteus Boat Club. We expect of you your appreciation and concurrence in our object in presenting the boat, which is, while giving this meaning of employment, to also afford you ample opportunity to exercise your bodies and so to perfect your health, and then as a result we shall expect better work, both in school and shop. In conclusion, the members of the Protean Society, through me, their President, do now put into your care and keeping this beautiful new boat, in which we trust will be a strong incentive to each one of you to become many, honorable and pure. Our colors—the blue and white—are the monitor of duty, and always remind us to be true and pure. And may each succeeding year find the members of the club true men and pure men, and so by your lives and example, give glory and honor to our school and to all the deaf of this great country."

This was received with enthusiasm and a Chautauqua salute.

Mr. R. E. Maynard, Captain of the Proteus Boat Club, then responded in the following:—

"President of the Protean Society, Ladies and Gentlemen:—How grateful are the Protean Society in presenting to our club such a magnificent boat, which has just been christened 'Proteus' by the President of the Ida Montgomery Circle, and a better name could not have been selected by the Protean Society."

"Surely, as Captain of the Proteus Boat Club, and in the name of the organization, we are very much indebted to the Protean Society for their presenting the boat to us, which we shall accept with great pleasure and profound thanks. We cannot express our thanks in words, but we can in thoughts and deeds. Long may her flags of white and blue wave over her, and may they be pure and true, to show our fond appreciation for such a gift. The 'Proteus' has just been united with the water. Not so with us; we shall be united in heart and words."

"In behalf of the Proteus Boat Club, I thank you."

Amid the waving of handkerchiefs the acceptance was concluded.

Dr. I. L. Peet then made some remarks, which are subjoined:

"Mr. President and Members of the Protean Society:—It gives me great pleasure to be with you on an occasion so interesting to us all. A boat is a great treasure. It affords so many opportunities for healthful enjoyment. The boat which has just been christened in due form, must be especially valuable to you, because you earned the money with which to buy it."

"When I was of your age, I was as fond of rowing as you are. My class organized the first boat club that Yale College ever had, and I was one of its most enthusiastic members. When, forty-seven years ago, I became a teacher in this Institution, then located at Fifth Street, where Columbia College now stands, I was in the habit of rowing on the East River after school every day, and when we came here, thirty-six years ago, I presented a boat called the 'Evangeline' to the older pupils, and used to go out with them very often. When this boat became no longer serviceable, the Directors presented the High Class with another boat, which was likewise christened the 'Evangeline.' A beautiful creature she was; but the time came when she, in her turn, died of old age. Then the boys, by the aid of an entertainment given by them, found the means to procure another boat, built expressly for them and christened the 'Ariel.' The 'Ariel' gave them much pleasure for a time, but the season had hardly closed before she was stolen from her moorings without leaving a cent behind."

"The boat which you have just named the 'Proteus,' after the society of which you are members, is not likely to meet a similar fate, for, if true to her name, she will frustrate all attempts to seize her by assuming in succession, the many forms into which her prototype changed himself, when he wished to elude hostile hands. As she bears you on the bosom of the beautiful Hudson, now flowing before you to the sea, she will remind you of the voyage of life that follows the stream of time, and it immerses into the great ocean of eternity. So will you learn to live in such wise, that, when your school and boating days are over, you will become matured in character and influence, and be buoyed up with the hope that when your life work on earth is done, you will be received into the Mansions of bliss."

Mr. Thomas F. Fox, then said a few words as a representative of the old Evangeline Boat Club, of which he was one of the crew in the '70's. He told of the benefits that could be derived from the new boat if used in the proper manner and with judgment, including humorous remarks, etc.

Miss Alice M. Judge then presented the flag of the Boat Club to the Captain with the following remarks:—"I hope the 'Proteus' will see better days than the bowl in which the three wise men went to sea."

E. H. Currier, M.A., Commodore of the Boat Club then expressed, in a few well chosen remarks, his profuse thanks to so many who had honored the occasion with their presence.

This wound up the exercises, and the "Proteus" was rowed away to her moorings amid a wild flutter of handkerchiefs and applause from all on shore.

The officers of the "Proteus" are, Prof. E. H. Currier, Commodore; R. E. Maynard, Captain; Frank Aven, First Lieutenant; James Britt, Second Lieutenant; C. E. Vernon, Secretary; John H. Hogan, Treasurer; W. Watson, Chairman, W. L. Bowers, Frank Turner, Executive Committee.

Invitations were extended the fair sex for an afternoon in the boat, Saturday, for the first time, but the inclement weather caused disappointment to both sexes. Another party will attempt the same thing this week.

The athletic games to be run off on Decoration Day at this Institution will doubtless attract a big crowd. Those coming to witness same should bear in mind that the first event will be run at two o'clock p.m. The officials of the day will be: Referee, Thos. F. Fox, U. A. C.; Starter, E. H. Currier, F. A. A.; Timekeepers, Edwin A. Hodgson, F. A. A., W. G. Jones, F. A. A.; Official Scorer, A. Capelli, F. A. A.; Announcer, H. Bettels, F. A. A.; Marshals, J. Goor, J. Lynch.

Wednesday of last week, Mr. J. Hood Wright, one of our Board of Directors, met with a mishap near the Institution. Mr. Wright lives a short distance to the north of the Institution up the Ridge Road. He may be seen every fine day driving a spirited team down towards Central Park. On this day he was returning home at about halfpast ten in the morning, when the team ran away. Mr. Wright jumped for his life and landed safely. His light skeleton wagon was smashed to pieces. The accident was witnessed by many here.

Thursday last, Mrs. Turner, who is in charge of the linen room, looked very sad. We found that her pet canary bird had strayed or flown away. She had become very fond of it, and the bird was so tame that she was in the habit of letting it fly among the trees during the day, and towards evening it would return to its cage. She feels her loss very keenly, and has offered a reward of $5 to the person who returns her lost pet.

The "Fanwood" made another expedition in search of the finny tribe last Saturday. The luck was the best of the season thus far, the catch averaging over sixty-seven. Bass are beginning to run now, and those nutes in the city with a fishy appetite will do well to note this. The party also caught a human being in the person of Martin Glynn, and it took the united efforts of the three other fishermen to get him out of the water into the boat. Martin attributed his falling into the river to a "big bass bite," though we presume it was due to an attack on his line by an electric eel. The true cause is unknown, and it was a laughable sight to see him holding his watch above water in one hand and striking out with the other. He received nothing but a severe soaking.

In last week's Itemizer of the JOURNAL, we see it is stated that the flat-boat "Fanwood" is the property of the Proteans. Such is an error. We also wish to correct the impression going about that we said the lost "Ariel" was found. We never made such statement.

The election of officers of the "Fanwood" took place last week. They are W. L. Bowers, Captain; A. Baxter, First Mate; F. Turner, Secretary; M. Glynn, Treasurer. This body constitutes an Executive Committee also. There are six members belonging to the club.

HURRY SCURRY.

THE GALLAUDET HOME.

Mrs. D. Porter Lord and Mrs. C. H. Roberts happened to be the visiting committee this month. They were pleased to find that the same harmonious routine goes on, and the machinery in good working order under Mrs. Nicholson's excellent arrangement. She is a model matron, and her services are indispensable to the comfort and happiness of the aged and helpless ones who are entrusted to her motherly care.

Several copies of the Twentieth Annual Report of the Church Mission to Deaf-Mutes have been sent here.

Rev. Prescott Everts called Tuesday, the 3d inst., and had a talk with Messrs. Gardner and Fox, who were to receive confirmation in Zion Episcopal Church that evening. Bishop Leigh Richmond Brewer, of Montana, performed the solemn ceremony, and the candidates numbered about twenty-five. Mr. Everts presented Mr. Fox with a neat gilt-edged prayer book in memory of the occasion, and on the fly leaf was written the following text from holy writ: "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give a crown of life."

Miss Lizzie Fischer enjoyed a long ride to Poughkeepsie three weeks ago, and on her return, she said Mrs. C. M. Nelson will attend the lawn party, if her health permits and the weather should be favorable.

A path was recently made on the eastern side of the building to avoid trouble in getting coal into the cellar, whenever it is brought from the coal yard.

The lady managers of the home held their May meeting at the residence of the Secretary, Thursday, the 5th inst.

At the breakfast table, a short time ago, we were shown some large oranges, called orange fruit, which came from Southern California. Mrs. Nicholson cut the oranges in pieces, and distributed them among us, but the taste was bitter.

The floor of Supervisor Gardner's apartment has been painted red, and the color of the wood-work of the window is yellow. Somebody jokingly remarked that it must be the Dutch or German fashion, whichever you prefer.

Changing to be in Poughkeepsie, Friday afternoon, the 6th inst., our matron stopped at Vassar College for a little while.

Mrs. Sarah Campbell Kipp and "Louise" witnessed the laying of the corner-stone of the Fanwood School in November, 1853, on which occasion the late Rev. William Adams, D.D., presided. The principal, teachers, and pupils of the Fiftieth Street Institution in New York, and a large concourse of people assembled under the blue canopy of heaven, and after the stone box was lowered in the ground and addresses had been delivered, all went to the Mansion House, where a bounteous repast was served, shortly after which the beautiful place was silent like the tomb. Though thirty-nine years have elapsed since the event occurred, it can never be obliterated from the writer's memory.

After weeks of silence, an interesting letter from Miss Dame Trot, of the Malone, N. Y., School for the Instruction of the Deaf, turned up in the JOURNAL of May 5th, and was read with pleasure. Hope she will contribute to the paper more frequently.

Rev. and Mrs. Chamberlain arrived from the great city down the river, Saturday afternoon, the 7th inst., and were our guests until the following Monday, having passed a delightful time. When dinner was over, Sunday, the 8th inst., Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain took a drive to Poughkeepsie, and came back in time for the clergyman to conduct chapel service in the evening. It may not be out of place in this item to say that Miss Adelaide Chamberlain lately got up a little fair at her home for the purpose of raising some money, which has been forwarded to far-off Alaska to help educate the children there, who are growing up in ignorance, and eighty dollars were the result of her noble and persevering efforts to do good and benefit others.

Adelaide is a bright and intelligent girl, about fourteen years old. She and her sisters, Bessie and Margaret, are members of a circle of the King's Daughters, known as the "Willing Workers." The circle belongs to the Sunday School of St. Ann's Episcopal Church.

Four lady friends of Mrs. Totten came to see her early in the month.

A brother of one of the inmates was mentioned in the New York Times of May 13th, regarding the enforcement of the liquor law under Superintendent Byrnes' new administration. The person first referred to is a police captain, and was recently transferred from the twenty-third precinct to another in the central part of the city. He has served on the force twenty-four years, and will undoubtedly rise to some higher position.

On the 7th inst., Mrs. Starr received a call from her sister, Mrs. E. M. Howard, and Mrs. Gallup was also a visitor.

Mr. Isaac Gardner had to go to New York, Monday before last, and returned the next day. During his brief stay in town, Mr. Gardner went to Fanwood, and was much pleased with what he saw and heard.

All of the inmates except an uneducated old woman were born under the American flag, and are loyal to their country.

Mr. Hitchack, Superintendent of the Dutchess County alms house, was here on a recent pleasant day.

Mrs. Nicholson left for Dansville, N. Y., on a night train Tuesday, the 10th inst., and was the guest of Mrs. Judge Vanderlip for a fortnight. While the matron was absent, Mrs. I. Hamilton Moore had charge of the house, and every thing went on well. Dr. Cornell took tea with Mrs. Moore Wednesday, two weeks ago. He had been summoned to the farm house, as Miss Julia Gardner was suffering with a sore throat.

Since our last letter, the inmates have been photographed in groups outside in the open air, and Betty was seated with a cat on her lap. Possibly the pictures will be on sale at the lawn party, but up to date no definite information has been received.

Mr. Caton, of Highland, N. Y., the father of James H. Caton, drove over to the Home before noon Thursday, the 10th inst., and was accompanied by a deaf-mute young man, but James failed to put in an appearance.

Friday afternoon, May 13th, Mrs. Swift and Mrs. Crary, of the Ladies' Committee, had business at the Home.

Blind Mr. Sprague occupied the platform in the chapel Sunday morning, the 15th inst., and discoursed upon keeping the Sabbath day holy.

Miss Spear expects a visit from her brother and sister next month. The gentleman is a boss plumber in Denver, Col., and can use the manual alphabet.

The day fixed for the seventh annual lawn party of the Home is Tuesday, June 14th. A large attendance is looked for, and we all hope the affair will be a splendid success financially and otherwise.

Mrs. Starr attained her eighty-second year on the 19th inst., and though quite advanced in life, she does not wear spectacles when she reads or sews.

Weeks before last, a new rule was hung on the outside of the kitchen door, near the laundry.

It is doubtful if Mr. Clinton will be at his alma mater on Commencement Day.

Betty came to your correspondent Monday a week ago, and told her a few snow-flakes had fallen in the morning, but we could not account for it.

Mr. Sprague is the happy possessor of a box of new carpentering tools, from friends at the New York Institution, to whom he wishes to extend thanks.

LOUISE.

KANSAS ITEMS.

There will be seven graduates from the first class of the Kansas School on June 6th, four young ladies and three young men. It is expected that at least two or three of them will enter the National College in the fall.

Mr. E. E. Clippinger, teacher of the second class, will visit the East this summer, stopping at New York, Philadelphia, Saratoga, and other places.

Miss Nellie Pistole, a pupil of the Missouri School, will make us a call after that school closes for the summer.

Mr. Ed. McIlvaine is one of the Oklahoma boomers. He has an excellent position as a compositor in that city. He was a former pupil here, and graduated from the Ohio School two years ago.

Miss Sallie Curry was taken by surprise by a visit from her father last Thursday. He promised her that she should attend the grand picnic at Kansas city on the 9th of June.

Some of the pupils of this school contemplate attending the forthcoming picnic, which occurs the second week in June.

We shall probably have a half holiday on May 30th. If so, the "Silvers" will play a game of baseball with the "Gold." We take the opportunity to invite all the female pupils to witness the game.

Edward Funk, a student of the Second class, will spend his vacation at home, where he has the pleasure of hunting, fishing, etc., to occupy his attention.

Rosie McMurray received an interesting letter from home lately. Her father is coming to see her before school closes, and she is to accompany him back to Iowa, where she will spend the summer vacation at her home.

Mary Hull received a pleasant visit from her mother and great aunt last Friday. They took Mary home with them.

Last March, Mr. Henry Dougherty and Miss Martha Grubb were united in marriage. They are now living on their new farm, which is five miles east of La Cynne.

Miss Lillian Colberly, once a pupil here, wrote an interesting letter to Dr. I. H. Brown, stating that she would again attend school in the fall.

Mr. Nathan Lee, foreman of the printing office, and his wife and child, will visit relatives and friends in McPherson next June.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Rogers will spend their vacation in South Carolina, where they will remain with relatives and friends. Mr. Rogers is teacher of the third class.

UNCLE SAM.

Reward.

LOST—Last Wednesday, a yellow canary with a few dark feathers near the neck. The finder will please return it to the owner, who is in great grief for her pet. A five-dollar bill for whoever brings me my "Goldie." Address: "CANARY," DEAF AND DUMB INSTITUTION, 162d Street and 10th Avenue.

FANWOOD QUAD CLUB.

[OFFICIAL NOTICE.]

THE next regular monthly business meeting of the Fanwood Quad Club will be held in the Reception Room of Mr. R. B. Saul's Hotel, 162d Street and Amsterdam Avenue, on Saturday, June 4th. Every member is respectfully requested to be present.

Members who have not yet joined the Columbian Exposition Fund, are informed that this will positively be the final day in which the Treasurer's books will be open to them.

By order of the President,

Hospital Benefit Lecture.

THE LYON MANUAL PHONETICS.

Lecture Course—Personal and Local Items.

(From our Illinois Correspondent.)

The idea of having a lecture from one who is not immediately connected with, or actively engaged in or in the past benefitted by the work of the deaf-mute education, was recently attempted for the first time by the Young America's Literary Society, and it proved to be a success from all points of view. The lecturer, engaged by the society, was no other than Mr. J. S. W. Nichols, editor of the Jacksonville Journal. The occasion took place in the chapel last Saturday evening, and besides the members of the society and of the Mutual Improvement Society, teachers, officers and pupils were present.

The subject Mr. Nichols selected for his lecture was "Reminiscences of Army Life," which he narrated from a standpoint of his actual experience in the late war. Instead of describing any particular battle or encounter in all its thrilling scenes, as many lecturers often do, he gave an outline of army life, beginning with first indications of war and taking in enlistment of recruits, formation of companies, camp life, marches, drills, forts, magazines, arms, artillery and so on, thus making his talk very instructive as well as entertaining. The lecture was well received, and after a vote of thanks was given to the gentleman, a voluntary collection was taken. The timely suggestion made by himself in answer to the offer of five dollars for the lecture, had been taken that the money might well go to the City Hospital Building Fund, and the voluntary collection of seven dollars and fifty was gladly added thereto.

The following note of thanks was received from Mr. Nichols, which may be of interest to those interested in similar works and causes:

"The Young America and Mutual Improvement Society and other pupils of the Illinois Institution for Deaf-Mutes:

"DEAR FRIENDS:—I have this day (the 17th instant) received your generous contribution of twelve dollars and fifty cents for the City Hospital Fund, and in behalf of that worthy institution, permit me to express to you my hearty thanks. It is the good we do as we go through life that lightens the paths of those about us and reflects on our own way a halo from the shining courts above where reigns He who said, 'Inasmuch as ye did it to one of the least of these my brethren, ye did it unto Me.' May the dear Father above bless you all abundantly, and let me hope that the friendship so pleasantly begun between us be extended for many years.

"Very sincerely your friend,
"S. W. NICHOLS."

Mr. Edmund Lyon, of Rochester, now identified with the work of deaf-mute instruction by reason of his manual phonetics, has been here for nearly two weeks, training our articulation teachers in the use of the phonetics. He delivered two lectures before the teachers of the school last week, and spoke upon the same subject at the Jacksonville Academy last week, and discussed the work before the club, the Literary Union, and the Round Table, three leading literary bodies of the city, last Monday evening. Thus far, the subject has been receiving favorable attention, thought and study. Last Sunday morning he conducted the chapel service, Dr. Gillet interpreting.

He dwelt upon the life, journey and works of the great apostle St. Paul. This week's issue of the Advance has a comprehensive outline of the interesting talk. Mr. Lyon gave three reasons for his admiring and liking Paul: firstly, because Paul was sincere and honest; secondly, because he made mistakes, but he always corrected them; and, thirdly, because he was a missionary. Then he proceeded with the journey and works of the greatest, our Lord excepted, of missionaries.

Last evening the ninth and last regular lecture of the course was delivered before the Mutual Improvement and Young America societies in the Lyceum, by Mr. Rogers. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was the subject, and it was handled in as effective and vivid a manner as only the lecturer could, and the audience was completely drawn into the spirit of the alternate sufferings and joys of the various slaves. It would not be too much to say that the lecture came, though last, justly as dessert to the preceding sound ones.

Both societies may be congratulated upon the success of their lecture course, now closed. Besides the nine regular lectures, two special ones have been given—the first, by Mr. Gallaher, of Chicago, alluded to in a former letter, and the second, by Mr. Nichols. The interest in the course has not abated, and it is to be hoped that the good thing will continue to be one possessed and enjoyed by the societies with profit to themselves and with peculiar joy to those thus engaged.

Dr. Gillet, Mr. Lyon and Mr. Fred. Gillet spent Thursday and yesterday in Alton and St. Louis, visiting the flooded districts. Mr. Lyon goes to Decatur this afternoon, to stay there over Sunday.

Mrs. Cole, oldest child of Dr. Gillet, and her two children, Philip and Alma, are here on a visit. Both children have grown much, and present a very healthy appearance.

Mr. Appleby is in Chicago, where he will conduct to-morrow's church service for the deaf at the usual place.

Tree new bicycles have since come into use here. The happy possessors are Miss Ore, Mr. Heiss—a Victor wheel—and Mr. Rogers, a pneumatic Rambler of the latest make.

The Mutual Improvement Society held its farewell meeting last Saturday afternoon, and thus closed the sixth year of its existence.

The hospital benefit lecture was interpreted by Dr. Gillet, and the meeting was presided at by Miss Ore, chairman of the lecture course committee.

This year's graduating class consists of six young ladies and eight young men, a number of whom are candidates for admission as students at the deaf-mute college.

Commencement exercises will be held in the morning of Tuesday, June 7th, as usual. Miss Alcorn has been chosen to make the valedictory addresses, and Mr. Toune will open the exercises with the salutatory.

Usual notices and circulars concerning pupils going home, have been sent to their parents and guardians, and answers, etc., are now coming.

JACKSONVILLE, ILL., May, 21, '92.

NEW YORK, May 23, 1892.

We do not know of any other stores in this city where man or boy may be completely clothed from head to foot. It is often an advantage to have one's shopping condensed, as it may be done in either of our three places; especially when only good things are dealt in.

The character of our Clothing has been raised steadily year by year, until now our new trade in Men's Clothing comes chiefly from the former wearers of custom garments. Of course our prices have to be below custom rates; but we do not skimp our cloth or tailoring to produce a very low price or permit a large profit. $20 to $30 buys a thoroughly satisfactory Overcoat or Suit, and we sell many excellent ones for $15 to $20.

It goes without saying that, with our large outlet and ample facilities, we do not permit ourselves to be surpassed either in the quality or prices of Furnishing Goods, Hats or Shoes.

A. L. Thomas, a deaf-mute salesman, will be glad to show you our stock at the Prince Street store when you can conveniently call to look at clothing, hats or shoes.

THE confusion and obstruction caused by contrary opinions concerning the arrangements for celebrating the 75th anniversary of "Old Hartford," has been at last removed, and hereafter good order and systematic work will be the rule. The New England Gallaudet Association takes control, and at the same time appropriates a good round sum for necessary expenses in connection with the celebration. Prof. John Burton Hotchkiss, of the National Deaf-Mute College, will deliver the oration, and the Principal and teachers of the Hartford School will join in the endeavor to fittingly commemorate the event. A banquet will be arranged for, toasts and responses will be made, stories and reminiscences of "Old Hartford" will be told, and old classmates who have not met for ten, twenty and even thirty years, will clasp hands and join in the universal joy. The number of deaf-mutes from all over New England will be very large, and it safe to predict that quite a large delegation from this vicinity will be on hand to witness the proceedings and join in the festivities that follow. Official information concerning this great event will be found on the fourth page of the JOURNAL, and as additions will be made from time to time, we advise our readers to look over it weekly and keep themselves thoroughly posted.

HERE is a sample of the numerous misleading statements concerning lip-reading. The Deaf Chronicle, of Leeds, England, states that Thomas Alva Edison is "absolutely deaf," and that he "has taught himself lip-reading, and is perfect, seldom making mistakes." The fact is that Mr. Edison is not "absolutely deaf." He is simply hard of hearing, and in receiving communications from others, he depends entirely upon his hearing, which, however defective it may be, sufficiently answers the purpose. Therefore, it will be seen that it has not been necessary to acquire the ability to read on the lips, and consequently this "perfection" in that direction exists entirely in the imagination of the party who wrote about it.

THE Optic in an editorial reference to the seventy-fifth anniversary of the New York Institution, comments upon the long experience of teachers in that Institution, and asks the JOURNAL to furnish the average number of years. From the principal, Dr. I. L. Peet, who has been connected with deaf-mute education for forty-seven years, down to Miss Le Prince, the Art Instructor, who has had four years of experience with the deaf, we have ascertained the individual time of every teacher, and find that it foots up a total of 288 years, which, divided by 15—the number of teachers—gives an average of 19½ years.

THE pupils of the Belleville (Canada) Institution held their annual outdoor athletic games on the Queen's Birthday, May 24th. The programme sent us is neatly printed, and contains a list of twenty-two events, prizes being given to the first and second in each event.

THE JOURNAL always endeavors to publish articles promptly, but want of space sometimes makes this impossible. This week much interesting reading matter is unavoidably omitted. We are anxious to publish all the news relating to the deaf, and if this present influx of news continues, will be obliged to enlarge the JOURNAL.

A New College.

A CRUSHING DEFEAT.

Minor Mention.

(From our College Correspondent.)

The last few weeks before commencement are always marked with dullness that makes college like a burden. This feeling is beginning to manifest itself among a few of the students, chiefly those whose thoughts are bent on how to secure employment during the summer vacation. This is no light matter. Some are again wrestling with the problem that harass them yearly, how to obtain the necessary skeletons to take them to their destinations. This calls to mind a few thoughts, which may not be uninteresting. The unfortunate location of the college has been lamented by many bright would-be students, who are too poor to travel so far. The railroad companies swallow up all their earnings. Were it not for the Pennsylvania and Iowa Institutions, which together send yearly twenty to twenty-five students, the college would have closed its doors long ago. We think if a more centrally located college could be gotten up, the number of students would amount to a hundred or more. The legislature of the States the students represent can be persuaded to appropriate a certain sum for them under the same law, which supports the schools. In that manner, the new college will be national in character. If a technical department be added, the institution cannot fail to become popular. We hope the day is not distant when some one will take up the matter and push it forward. It would be a good subject for the coming teachers' convention.

The Kendalls met an ignominious defeat at the hands of the Young Men's Christian Association base ball team of Washington, in the presence of fifteen hundred spectators. Six innings were played, with a score of 22 to 1 in favor of the city boys. The Kendalls were without the great and only Hare, who is responsible for the four victories they won in the past. Without him, they seem to lose enthusiasm and confidence. But as this is a weakness with nearly all base ball players, we can afford to forgive them and hope that they will do better work, even without Hare. Kiene pitched, but was knocked out of the box in the fourth inning, and Sessions was substituted. The latter did magnificent work the remaining two innings, striking out three men successively twice. He was loudly applauded. The game was called soon after, on account of darkness.

Lawyer Parkinson, '99, was in town last week, but left without paying his respects to his Alma Mater. He comes to Washington two or three times a year, but never sets his foot on the soil of Kendall Green.

The swimming pool was opened last week, and there was a great rush for a dive into its chilly depths.

Rain prevented the outdoor games of the Atlantic division of the A. A. U., which were to be held in Washington last Saturday. The Columbia Athletic Club entered Taylor, '92, for the 16-lb. hammer and 56-lb. throwing contest. The games will take place Wednesday, the 25th. Taylor is also entered for those to be held May 30th and June 4th.

E. Long, '92, went to Baltimore in company with Barton, '92, and gave a magic lantern exhibition before the deaf-mutes' society there. Over two hundred paid admission. Mr. Long proposes to give exhibitions in small towns in New England during the summer. He has been in that line of business five years, and that has aided him through college. He is buying plates of Kendall Green, and of other schools for the deaf, to exhibit before any deaf-mute society desiring his services. New England deaf-mute societies had better engage him early.

Gymnasium Instructor Adams, in his lecture Saturday evening, on the theory of swimming, gave many valuable points.

Miss Houghton, of Georgetown, gave a party to the young ladies of the college Friday night, at her residence.

A house for Prof. Hotchkiss will probably be built between Prof. Gordon and Prof. Draper's, on the Faculty Row, next fall. There ought to have been one long ago.

The National baseball results are always reported to Matthewson's drug store, at the corner of H and 7th Streets, about four blocks from the college, and one night, one of the cranks here went down in a pouring rain to satisfy his curiosity. Now that fellow is overhead and ears in his support of the Louisville team, and no sooner did his eyes catch sight of the winning score than his tall bean-pole figure was seen rushing back with the speed of an express. Entering the reading room, he tore the air with wild gestures in announcing that the Louisville team had won. Asked the results of the other teams, he said he did not look at the whole card. Is there any greater crank?

Prof. Fay's son, Allen, who is studying at Harvard, is doing finely. He won recently a scholarship prize, valued at $200.

Fellow Ely, in addition to his duties as professor of mathematics, is teaching surveying.

Ward, '95, will probably join the Columbia Athletic Club. He is a fine sprinter, and with proper training, will, no doubt, win laurels.

The Mirror man is finding an unpleasant place in the Pelican's pouch. If he does not keep quiet, the bird will make him go through its little mill, which will completely squeeze out his shirking tactics.

Allard, ex-'94, a great lover of many sports, handed us the following clipping from the New York World, for publication in the JOURNAL:

"Gallaudet at stroke is rather a delicate-looking man, with a refined, intellectual face, and is the handsomest man in the boat. He is well proportioned, although not remarkably muscled. But his back and shoulders are powerful, as we see them when he comes up in the catch, with a quick, hard drive. He has rowed three years, two as stroke of his class boat. He has not needed much individual coaching this year. His body work and watermanship are good, and he rows in pretty form. He drives his crew well and keeps them up to their work. Gallaudet is as good as a stop-watch in setting the stroke, and rarely fails to hit it exactly when ordered to raise or lower. When rowing about thirty strokes, he is inclined to come down too fast on his side, and has to be watched." The above was accompanied with a wood-cut, in his sweater, with a big "Y" on the breast.

The race between Yale and Harvard will come off about the end of next month, and will, no doubt, excite the interest of the deaf-mute world. It will be remembered that Harvard won last year's race without much exertion, and if Yale turns the table this year, we will know to whom a greater share of the victory will be due.

BALTIMORE.

Mr. Ellsworth Long, of the National Deaf-Mute College, gave a very interesting and instructive stereoscopic exhibition before a very large audience at the Society's hall last Friday night. It embraced scenes in Europe and America interspersed with some comicals, which the audience greatly appreciated. The officers and members congratulate themselves upon the successful ending of the affair, and a handsome sum was realized, as is always the case with us whenever we undertake to entertain our friends. At the conclusion of the exhibition, Miss Annie Barry, a teacher of the Maryland School at Frederick, mounted the platform, and spoke to us about the reunion next June. She said that Principal Ely has received ninety-seven answers from those intending to attend, and that he expects to hear from many more. Among those that were noticed in the crowd, were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. R. Barry, Mrs. Ballard and daughter, Mr. Gustave Thies and wife, Mrs. Schulte, Harry Reamy, Mrs. Wess, and many others. Mr. Amos Barton came over with Mr. Long, and we infer that he greatly enjoyed himself. Both left for Washington on the 11.30 p.m. train the same night. At the lit meeting of the Society on Wednesday night, the subject "Resolved, That the World's fair should be closed on Sundays," was discussed on the affirmative side by Messrs. Briscoe and McElroy, and on the negative side by Messrs. Leitner and Mooney. The judges awarded the victory to the negative side. Mr. Smith then gave an interesting whale story, and we noticed a great deal of improvement in his delivery. He was then followed by Mr. Perego and Anderson, who gave short and interesting stories. With a little more practice they will become first-class sign-makers. The dialogue by Miss Wicks and Mr. Ramsay was exuberantly funny, and provoked a good deal of laughter. The programme ended with a pretty declamation by Miss Maggie O'Neill. After a favorable report of the critic, the meeting adjourned until June 1st. The society desires to return thanks to Mr. Wm. R. Barry, who assisted in the lantern exhibition on Friday night, also to his daughter, Annie, for a pair of Indian Clubs. Such acts of kindness are always duly appreciated and will always be treasured in our memory.

We are in receipt of a letter from Frank Leitner, of Edgewood Park, Pa., in which he states that he expects to reach Baltimore on July 1st.

Mr. Joseph Wychgram, of Edgewood, is in this city on pleasure bent, and is the guest of Mr. John Wess. He goes home to-day.

Mr. Alfred Feast, of Boston, arrived in this city the other day, and is in quest of a position, that of lithographer. He was at the chapel yesterday, and he says that he will soon get a job as some one has promised him. The Deaf-Mute Register, of the Rome Institution, is on our table in an enlarged form, which is a great improvement upon its former self.

Messrs. Fowle and G. Leitner expect to go to the country and spend several weeks with their relatives.

Sunday evening about supper time, a number of the members of the society being unable to go home on account of the heavy rain, got up an impromptu feast, which they enjoyed greatly. The menu consisted of tea, coffee, smoked sausage, pies, milk, biscuits, buns, and a large cocoanut cake. Those who remained and partook of the supper were the writers, Messrs. McElroy, Underwood, Kampe, Knoechel, Smith, Tyre and Briscoe. The coffee and tea and sausage were cooked by Mr. McElroy, who is gaining great renown as a first-class cook. We wish it to be made known that the Society possesses three dozen each of plates, cups, saucers, glass tumblers, knives and forks, a number of meat plates, cake stands and other glassware that goes to stock a first-class eating house, a gas-stove and other cooking utensils.

Whenever a friend calls at the residence of Mr. Brandlick, he always takes great pride in showing his poultry-yard. He now has thirteen ducklings, and seventeen chickens and several hens. He says that there is plenty of profit and pleasure in raising poultry. Should be removed to Laurel, he will engage extensively in the poultry business, of which he has a good deal of experience.

Mr. Henry Trieschmann, formerly of Randalstown, but now of Columbia, Md., was a visitor at the Society hall the other day. He will subscribe for the JOURNAL.

Mr. McElroy, whose bald pate shines like a billiard ball, was at the hall last night minus his moustache, and we mistook him for a Catholic dignitary.

American Association to Promote the Teaching of Speech to the Deaf.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 17, 1902.

DEAR SIR:—You published in the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL of May 5th, at the head of the editorial column, a letter from a teacher in one of our large Institutions, which might mislead persons who would otherwise be interested in the work of the American Association to Promote the Teaching of Speech to the Deaf, and whose co-operation the Association desires. The letter referred to, at least by implication, would lead deaf teachers to think they were discriminated against in the distribution of the publications of the Association.

As Secretary, I have had the pleasure recently of sending out 375 copies of a publication of the Association entitled "Circular of Information No. 2." This circular is a valuable work, which every teacher of the deaf should possess and master, but like all publications of the Association, it has been sent only to members.

The Association now includes among its membership a number of deaf teachers, and also of adults not connected with schools, and every member of the Association will be glad to have the number increased. The invitation to membership is without other limitation than a willingness to co-operate, in so far as any may be able, in the work of the Association.

I should be glad to have you publish the following notice, taken from a circular that was published last year, and sent to institutions for general distribution. I shall be glad if a correction of the letter published May 5th, and the interest that you yourself have in the oral instruction of the deaf, may be the means of sending us the names of a large number of deaf-mute teachers, or pupils or graduates of any of the schools for the deaf, who wish to become members of the Association.

Very respectfully,
Z. F. WESTERVELT,
Secretary of the American Association to Promote the Teaching of Speech to the Deaf.

In regard to the work of the Association, Dr. A. Graham Bell says in a letter to Mr. Westervelt:—

"Our Association has come into existence as the result of a compromise between opposing forces. The sign method and the oral method have been at war ever since the latter appeared in this country. The California Convention called a truce and established a neutral ground accepted by both parties, upon which members of the opposing forces could meet as friends. Upon this neutral ground we stand, and have unfurled the banner of the California resolution. If we are wise enough to keep to neutral ground, we will disarm opposition and draw to our ranks the moderate minded from both sides. The California resolution carefully avoided all reference to methods of instruction, and simply expressed the desire of the profession that every deaf child should have the opportunity to learn to speak. We should also avoid expressing any opinion regarding methods of instruction, and promote simply, the teaching of speech, without reference to methods.

"Fortunately we have on our Board of Directors representatives of all the different methods of instruction, so we may be sure that any course of action which meets the unanimous approval of the Board, will be received with favor by the whole profession. It will be the policy of the Association to pursue such a course as is unanimously agreed upon by the Directors, as was agreed upon by the Association at the time of its organization in New York and again at Albany. We should not allow a majority vote to dictate the policy of the Association. Since all have the good of the deaf at heart, and all are pledged to use their best judgment in promoting the teaching of speech, it is certain that we will all agree upon some points however we may differ upon others. The Association will thus be able to work only upon lines in which all agree. Even though we may not accomplish all that any one of us might desire, nor accomplish much, what we do accomplish will be good, and will give the profession confidence that will enable the Association in time to accomplish more. The attitude of the Association will be one of encouragement and help and not of criticism."

All persons actively engaged in the education of the deaf, who may desire to become members of the Association, should send their names and addresses to the Secretary. Every one may be assured that there is nothing exclusive in the Association; its door of admission is open to all who desire to unite heart, hand, and voice, in the good work of teaching every deaf child to speak.

Every person who is interested, directly or indirectly, in teaching the deaf to speak, is eligible to membership. Teachers of the deaf are especially desired as members. Parents of deaf children are urged to unite with and to promote the work of the Association. It is also desired that all persons who have an active interest in the deaf, as trustees of Institutions, as educators, as philanthropists, as legislators, State or National, should become life or honorary members. It is hoped that all persons into whose hands this circular may come, will send to the Secretary the names of teachers of the deaf, of parents having deaf children, and of any other persons in their acquaintance who might be interested in the objects of the Association. The annual fee of membership is two dollars, and should be paid before the first of June in each year.

Brooklyn, N. Y.

The much talked of debate between the Brooklyn Society and the Deaf-Mutes' Union League, of New York, came off on Saturday evening last. The attendance was rather small, which was owing to the rain. The question for debate was, "Which is the most desirable as a vocation, a Trade or a Profession." The debaters were Messrs. J. S. Orr and H. A. Schakenberg, of the Brooklyn Society for "Profession," and Messrs. M. Levy and S. Frankenheim, of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League, for "Trade." The debate was very good. The judges, who were Messrs. Frank A. Stryker, J. Gass and A. McLaren, at the conclusion awarded the victory to the Deaf-Mutes' Union League.

The following is taken from a New York paper:

AN OILER IS PUT IN CHARGE OF A LOCOMOTIVE AND DEATH FOLLOWS.

The dummy engines running on the road through Third Avenue, South Brooklyn, to Fort Hamilton, have caused many accidents, and the fatality that occurred last evening has at last aroused public indignation, because of the negligence in which the road is operated. John Boann of 334 Sixth Avenue and Philip Tobin of 530 Henry Street, Brooklyn, both deaf-mutes, boarded the Third Avenue train at 25th Street at 7 o'clock, bound for Fort Hamilton. As the train slackened speed near Fort Hamilton Boann jumped off a car on the downtown track side. A train drawn by engine No. 7 was on its way down, at full speed, and before Boann could be warned it struck and killed him and mangled his body frightfully. The man in charge of engine No. 7 was not one of the regular engineers, but according to his own statement, only an engine oiler and fireman. He said that he had frequently been put in charge of engines, when the regular men were away.

As the placing of an incompetent man in charge of an engine, thereby endangering the lives of passengers is as criminal offense, this fatal accident, which might have been averted had it not been for negligence on the part of the company, has called forth a perfect storm of indignant protests from the patrons of the line. Coroner Rooney said that the case would be rigorously investigated.

Boann was a cigarmaker by trade, 54 years old. He had a wife and six children. A man who saw the accident said that the chains which, according to the rules of the company, are to be kept up on the open cars when the latter are under way, were down at the time of the fatality. The conductor denies this, and said that Boann unsnapped the chain to get off.

Mr. and Mrs. Juhring, Misses Smith, Foland and Nellie Kortright, and Messrs. J. S. Orr and H. A. Schakenberg, visited Herrmann's Mystic at Col. Sinn's Park Theatre, some time ago.

Mr. Peter Adler, who has been out of work for some three months, wants to go to Philadelphia to work, but his mother won't consent to this. Peter is still idle, but looking around for a job.

Tickets for the Union League Excursion for July 14th, and tickets for the Brooklyn Society's picnic, can be obtained from the secretary of the Brooklyn Society.

If the weather is fine, on Decoration Day, Messrs. G. M. Taggard and J. S. Orr will take a spin on their bicycles to Yonkers, N. Y.

The Brooklyn Society will give a reception some time in June at their rooms at Adelphi Hall, to celebrate the close of the present season. The committee to arrange for the reception are Messrs. Wollman, Schnackenberg and Eeka.

Some time ago, Mr. A. Riedel had a narrow escape from being hurt, while on his way home with a companion after visiting friends. It happened this way. His companion picked up a piece of long iron and jokingly threw it at him. It just cut about a square foot from Mr. Riedel's coat, but he was not hurt. Mr. Riedel says he is going to sue his friend for a new coat.

COLUMBUS.

Our New Superintendent.

BASEBALL GLORY.

Paragraphs of Interest.

(From our Columbus Correspondent.)

The agony is over. The question as to who is to be superintendent, whether a man who had been tried and found wanting as one whose reputation was yet to be made, was settled Monday evening. There were but two names before the Board, Amasa Pratt and Col. S. R. Clarke. The former came fortified with a host of recommendations, mostly from people who know little or nothing regarding the Institution, and no doubt signed their names to petitions when impudently to do so, as a mere personal favor—that and nothing more. The deaf made no fight for any one man. All that they asked, was that their enemy should not be put in the position from which he had just been relieved two years ago. The trustees heeded their prayer. The result is Col. Clarke was elected by the votes of all the members present—four. Thus ends the contest at least for four years. The institution will continue in its upward march as it has in the two years past. The deaf will give their cordial support to Col. Clarke, just as they have done to Superintendent Knott, to make the institution a success. There will be no moans and wailing from the defeated man, but they will avail naught. We shall have little or nothing to say of him in these columns hereafter.

Colonel Clarke is well spoken of as a man, and we feel certain he will discharge the duties of his position in a manner that will be progressive. He will have the earnest co-operation of the deaf in and out of the institution to attain this end. He will take charge August first. He comes from Delaware County.

The Board only made two other appointments, Mrs. Julia J. Evans, Clerk to the Steward, and Augustus Grate, engineer in place of Fred. Hartman, resigned. It also passed a set of resolutions commendatory to the outgoing steward, Mr. Daniel Hartnett. The next meeting will be held June 16th.

The Independents yesterday tackled a club from the U. S. Barracks and came near breaking their long record of continual victory. Below is an account of the game from the State Journal.

GLORY FOR THE INDEPENDENTS.

The Independents of the Deaf and Dumb Institution played their ninth game on the home grounds with the Barracks yesterday afternoon. The Barracks led off at the bat and got two runs, Orth making a clean two-base hit by sending the ball almost over the fence. The mutes could not hit Orth safely, as he did very fine work in the box. The Barracks played a fine game and their bats were all safe. In the eighth the score stood 8 to 5 in the Barracks' favor. The mutes succeeded in getting two more runs, making the score 7. Quinn and Behrmer were on third and second and Smilian at the bat. The latter succeeded in giving the ball a hot grounder and the two on bases came in. Smilian was declared safe on first and then a double play—Orth to Quinn. Hit by pitch play the other inning so the umpire forfeited the game to the Independents. Score:

To-morrow is show day, here, "Barnum and Bailey's Greatest on Earth" is on the bills, and the pupils are in high expectancy of viewing the parade in the morning.

Tuesday evening, after study hour, the girls' A B Study Room was turned into a dancing hall, and for a couple of hours music and the light fantastic kept time with each other. It was an enjoyable occasion for all who participated. Only officers, employees and some invited friends from the outside, were present. We believe it was the first of the kind ever given here.

Miss C. M. Feasley chaperoned a party from here to the Central Insane Asylum once Thursday evening, where they were made at home by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Williams. At the close of the dance, Mr. and Mrs. Williams were called up by the employees of the Institution, and presented with a handsome set of twenty-six volumes of Encyclopaedia Britannica, as a testimonial of their regard and esteem. Mr. Williams has been the Financial Officer of the Institution the past two years, and left yesterday with a record for integrity and efficiency as praiseworthy as when the steward of our institution.

Little Sandusky, Ohio, has a deaf postmaster. The records of the institution fail to show that he ever attended school here, and no one about this place seems to have heard of him before last Monday. His name is J. R. Bunn. He was present at the Board meeting that evening, with the backing of Ohio's Great Wool King, Hon. David Harbster, as an applicant for the position of Storekeeper. As no appointment for the place was made, he will no doubt be here again at the next meeting.

Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Mann stopped over here, Friday evening, on their way to Pittsburgh to fill engagements there to-day.

Miss Mary Dundon spent most of the week on a visit to friends in Cleveland.

Miss Nora Patterson, after a couple months' absence among friends in Detroit, and at her home in Cambridge, returned Saturday, to her place in the bindery, and giving evidence that the lay-off had been quite beneficial to her physically.

Mr. J. W. Kidd, whom students of the College in '73 and '73 will remember as one of the two big strapping fellows from Tennessee, at that time, is seeking his fortunes out in Oklahoma Territory. He is married.

Much surprise was evinced here, when the last Mississippi Voice announced that its foreman and editor, Mr. C. E. Deem, had joined the benedictines. His friends were not prepared for such a step, nevertheless, they extend their sincere congratulations and deem his action right.

Indianapolis will witness a silent nuptial between Miss Mary Plueger and James Richardson, on June 2d, at Christ Church. Miss Plueger was formerly a pupil here, leaving in 1885, and graduating from the Indiana Institution in 1891. After their marriage their home will be at Monticello, Indiana.

Mr. Ira Crandon entertained Cliona last evening, with an account of the "Andrews Raiders," an exploit happening during the late war. May 22, '92.

NOTICE.

The Bishop of Long Island is to administer Confirmation in St. David's, Brooklyn, on Friday evening, May 27th, at eight. Several deaf-mutes are to be confirmed, and the service shall be interpreted. All are cordially invited.

GUILD OF SILENT WORKERS.

An annual meeting of the Guild of Silent Workers for the election of officers will occur on Tuesday, May 31st, at 8 p.m., at the Guild room of St. Ann's Church.

I. N. SOPER,
Secretary pro tem.

NOTICE.

Deaf-Mutes are cordially invited to the annual meeting of the "Guild of Silent Workers," in the Sunday-School Room of St. Ann's Church, next Tuesday evening, May 31st. After the business meeting there will be time for social intercourse and a collation served by Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain, who hope to see many friends there.

SUNDRY ITEMS.

The West Virginia Institution closes on June 16th.

J. Dunlap Baker is a compositor on the Danville (Va.) Register.

Rev. Job. Turner was in Danville, Va., for several days last week, to attend the meeting of the Episcopal Council.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hayden have postponed their intended Wooden Wedding until June. It will not come off on the 28th of May.

The world is full of music, if we had ears acute enough to hear it. Silence itself is acute music asleep.—Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, in N. Y. Observer.

We are sorry to learn that editor Hill of the Abol Transcript, in trying to cultivate the acquaintance of a paper cutting machine, Monday, lost the end of one finger. Brother Hill should know better than to fool with edged tools.—Gardner Journal, May 18.

Rev. Mr. Searing, who recently resigned the rectorship of a hearing congregation, in order to give all his attention to the spiritual wants of the deaf-mutes of Boston, Mass., and vicinity, will be married next month to a deaf-mute young lady in Brooklyn, N. Y.

At a recent meeting of the deaf-mute societies of Albany and Troy, to arrange for then coming excursion, Mr. C. F. Mull was elected manager, and Mr. T. E. Carman Treasurer. The date decided on was Monday, July 18th. Further particulars will be given in the JOURNAL.

Mr. Alfred E. Feast, an artist, formerly of Toronto, Can., who has been spending the past months in Boston, Mass., arrived in Baltimore, Md., safely last week, where he expects to remain several months, and will visit in Washington in June. He has greatly enjoyed himself since he left Canada. He will probably go home in August for two weeks.

The Union League Scores on the Brooklyn Society in Debate.

J. BOANN'S SAD ENDING.

Hopes for Better Weather on Decoration Day—Baseball Enthusiasm—Dr. Gallaudet's Patience Taxed—A Webster's Unabridged Ninety-Eight Cents.

(From our New York Correspondent.)

The Brooklyn Society—Union League Club joint debate was contested at Adelphi Hall, Brooklyn, last Saturday evening, May 21st. It was a poor night for a large attendance. The weather was wet and disagreeable. However, the talent was there to the number of forty or more, and hence the two teams had some room to show up well.

After some parleying, the debaters and their representatives agreed upon Messrs. Archie McLaren, of the home club, J. B. Gass, of the visiting team, and Frank A. Stryker, of the Fanwood Quad Club, doing honors as judges.

The question discussed read, "Which is the more desirable as a vocation, a trade or a profession?" Messrs. James S. Orr and Henry Schnakenberg looked after the Brooklyn side of the question, Messrs. Max Levi and Samuel Frankenstein upholding the Union League's interests.

The points advanced were varied and well delivered. Mr. Orr, like an amateur runner in a three-mile foot race, set out with an ounce of tutti-frutti in his mouth. If his sign-making was vigorous, his chewing was ten times more so. In fact, he kept chewing gum at such a rate, the presiding officer, to avert a possible case of lock-jaw, politely intervened, with the request he'd stop it. He did so, but it seemed to have taken all the ginger out of him, and perhaps to that cause is accounted the victory of the opposing forces.

The judges decided in favor of the Union League representatives, crediting them with 72 points against 60 points for the Brooklynites.

One of Brooklyn's industrious and respected deaf-mute citizens met with a frightful death on Wednesday, May 18th. He was Joseph Boann. In company with Philip Tobin, who is a doorkeeper of the Aldermanic Chamber of Brooklyn's City Fathers, they were bound on a pleasure trip to the Fort Hamilton Brewery. A summer garden is attached to this resort, and is a very popular place for Brooklynites. From it an excellent view is obtained of Gowanus Bay, with New York Bay and the Staten Island shore in the distance. Just now Gowanus Bay is alive with sailing craft of every description. Most of the big racers in this part of the country, both yachts and steam launches, are taken here during the winter, and are prepared for cruising about this time of the year.

The couple had boarded one of the Fort Hamilton trains, which are propelled by "Dummy" engines. Mr. Tobin was the first to get off, and believed his friend, Mr. Boann, was right behind him. When the train passed, he looked around for Boann, and was alarmed and almost paralyzed to see him lying between the tracks, a few yards distant.

Mr. Boann appears to have jumped off the train on the opposite side, with the result he was struck by the engine of the train going in an opposite direction, and, without doubt, instantly killed. The train was stopped and the engineer arrested, and held to await the action of the coroner.

Mr. Boann was the father of six children, his wife being able to speak and hear. In his fifty-sixth year, he was an Englishman coming from London. For the past twenty-six years he had been employed as a cigar-maker in the Hart Cigar Factory, Brooklyn. His mother, who lives in London, is said to be ninety years old, and Mr. Boann had been planning to make her a visit next Summer. He was seen but little in deaf-mute circles, being very fond of his home and family. All who know him speak of him as a man of many excellent qualities, and his sad ending is greatly regretted. His deaf-mute friends extend to his wife and children their deepest sympathy in their sad bereavement.

It is likely a suit for damages will be instituted against the railroad company. They should have a gate to prevent passengers getting off cars on the inside portion of the track. The cable cars in New York City are thus provided. If the gate was open the company could be sued for negligence. If it was closed, the conductor should have prevented passengers jumping over or opening it. The "dummy" engines on the road are to be replaced next week by electric motors.

Miserable weather has been the topic during the past week. Hopes are entertained the next fortnight will make amends. If it rains on Decoration Day, the silent members of the city will like to mop the weather clerk until he cries for quarter.

Expectations are rife for seeing

ST. LOUIS.

Two Enjoyable Parties.

PICNIC DATE DECIDED.

Personal Jottings.

(From our St. Louis Correspondent.)

"Independent" regrets having failed to write for the last few weeks, but circumstances over which we had no control interfered with our journalistic duties.

Since our last letter, two very enjoyable parties have taken place in our silent circles.

The party given to Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Campbell, Jr., in honor of their tin wedding anniversary, and took place Saturday evening, April 23d. A very large number of deaf-mutes and the happy couple's relatives were present, and it is needless to say they enjoyed themselves thoroughly, as W. T. Campbell has a solid reputation for giving all his guests a good time. Various games generally played at parties served to make the time pass with amazing swiftness, and at midnight an elegant supper was served to all present to which every one did full justice. After refreshing the inner man, the amusements were renewed, and kept up till the wee sma' hours. The deaf-mutes very much concluded that Mr. and Mrs. Campbell had a plentiful supply of tinware without adding enough more to fill a couple of spare rooms, so they presented the couple with a handsome dinner set instead of tin bric-a-brac.

The following week quite a large number of young people went down to Carondelet to give M. and Mrs. Kyle an agreeable surprise. However, they found the worthy couple prepared for them, and were made to feel at home from the start. Fun and merriment was the order of the evening, and at the proper time a bountiful repast was provided to all present. Not till the morning sun burst upon the scene did the party break up, and make a break for the electric cars to take them back to the city. All present agree that Mr. and Mrs. Kyle are hard to beat as entertainers, and that they would call again soon.

The long, long looked for announcement of the date of the St. Louis Deaf-Mute Club Picnic is out at last. The place selected is the same old place, where many a picnic has been held before—viz., Upper Creve Coeur Lake, and the day, the picnic will be held, will be Thursday, June 16th.

This has been an enjoyable week to visitors in the city and also to a large number of the city's population, on account of the grand entertainments given by A. O. U. W., a benevolent secret society. A grand display of fireworks and naval sham battle on the river was one of the features of the festivities, which was enjoyed by almost the whole city. Large numbers of our deaf-mute community took in the fun and pronounced it immense. "Independent" and a chosen few had the best view of any of the deaf-mutes having secured front seats on top of a box car without asking the leave of the owners.

That deaf-mute divorce case about which the deaf-mute scandal-mongers here and elsewhere have been talking will probably never come to trial, as the fair plaintiff is even now regretting her rashness in making charges she could not substantiate, and the real cause of the disagreement was a meddlesome relative and story-telling deaf-mutes who made a mountain out of a mole hill, and talked of things they knew nothing about.

Edward Kelling and "Uncle Sam" Perlmutter made a trip to Barrett's Station, Mo., the other week, to see their friend Dan. Walsh and spent an enjoyable day with him, so much so, in fact, that they will repeat the trip at their earliest opportunity.

To get even, Daniel Walsh spent a few days in the city, and was shown everything worth seeing by his friends during his stay, leaving for home with an invitation for the whole crowd to come out on a fishing excursion to his place in the near future.

The deaf-mute "Bill Nye," of Missouri, or as he is better known to the world at large, Watson D. Sheriff, was in St. Louis for a week's stay.

Mr. Frank A. Scott, of Leavenworth, Kansas, has been in town for several weeks past, on a visit to his old friend Herbert L. Johnson. Mr. Scott is a very intelligent deaf-mute, and a frank manly gentleman that it gives one pleasure to meet with now-a-days, as there are few like him to be met with in this city. He has made many friends during his short stay, and they will all regret that he is not able to settle here permanently.

Miss Augusta Vassel returned to the city, a couple weeks ago, from a protracted visit to her married sister at Arkansas City, Ark., and great is the rejoicing of half a dozen of her devoted admirers to see her in our midst again. It is to be hoped that some of the laggard lads will screw their courage up to the "popping" point, and carry her off before she goes away again.

Miss Elleanor's mother has taken unto herself a second partner for life. The event took place two weeks ago, and since then Miss Elleanor has gone housekeeping with his sister.

William Funderbeck was seen promenading around the aristocratic section of the city, the other week showing his friend Charles Wolf, (no relation to the St. Louis party of same cognomen), what a booming place this is to come to and grow up with. But William evinced a strong aversion to seeing our "Uncle Sam" Perlmutter. Wonder why? The Madison Car Shops at Madison, Ill., where Funderbeck works, is under several feet of water, so he will have to enjoy an enforced idleness for some time to come.

"Independent" noted with considerable amusement a note in the NEBRASKA correspondent congratulating the club here over the fact it has already put away over one thousand dollars towards its building fund. Now, to be candid, the club has not got one thousand "salted" away, nor, sad to relate, but only too true, has not even half that amount in bank. Who told you that fairy tale, "Vertie?"

All seems quiet in the "village by the lake," and is "Rasco" disposed to bury the hatchet or is he only lying low for a good opportunity to raise our scalp. As far as "Independent" is concerned, "Rasco" can pour all the hot shot he wants into the club here after this and we won't even whisper.

Since Revs. A. W. Mann and J. H. Cloud made their famous wholesale round up of converts a couple months ago, Rev. Frank Read has been watching his fences very closely for fear some of his sheep might wander into the neighboring fold. Rev. Read now holds services here almost every week, and still continues to use Bowman's Hall to instruct his flock in the way they should go.

The Deaf-Mute Club and Rev. Read are thinking of pooling their issues and renting a finer hall than they have at present, though their present quarters are very handsome all things considered. The cause for this action is the fear that the rent of the club's room will soon be greatly increased, or that they may have to vacate soon anyhow to make room for a fine building to be erected on the site of the present structure. As yet the club has not decided where it will move to, though at one time, it had about concluded to locate on the corner of Seventeenth and Olive only for an objectionable clause in the lease.

Louis Jacoby is once more rustling around the city hunting for a job, after a couple weeks work with the Gast Lithographing Company, and he finds business dull all over town. Beware, country comps, forsake not the sure thing you have at home for the prospects of catching on in this city. Printing is played out in St. Louis just now, so give this town a wide berth.

And lo! and behold, it has come to pass as was predicted a few months ago. "The American Fraternal Circle" has climbed the golden stairs and is now one of the "has-beens" into which thousands of deluded mortals have poured good American dollars in the vain hope of getting a good deal for a little. The gloom in certain deaf-mute quarters is so thick you could cut chunks out of it and the high-toned gents that thought they knew it all have disappeared from public view. It is very safe to say that it will be many a long day before the deaf-mutes in this city will be roped into another bunco game like the A. E. C. scheme.

What are the deaf-mutes of this city going to do about making arrangements to attend the International Congress of Deaf-Mutes to be held in Chicago in 1893, and incidentally of course taking in the World's Fair. It is high time some concerted plan of action should be evolved, if this city wishes to be creditably represented. St. Louis never has in the past been represented at great National gatherings of the deaf as it should be, and if the mutes here should let such an occasion as the coming convention go by without doing something creditable it will be a shame.

Martin Fromionack is another of the mutes thrown temporarily out of work by the flood; the Buck Stove Works, where he is employed being compelled to shut down a couple days ago. August Dickman is employed in the same place and is in the same boat.

DETROIT DOINGS.

Miss Eunice Harth, of this city, was visiting in Flint, last Sunday.

Francis Jefferson was in Port Huron, last week, on business.

Preston Perry has been confined to home with a bad cold. He is out again on business, at this writing.

Miss Clara Smith, of New York, got home to this city safely last Saturday. She is living with her niece, Mrs. Warner.

Thos. Mahon used to sell milk for his brother. He had to quit milking, on account of his poor health. He got a better job in the Buhl Stamping Company.

John Hollers left the Public Ledger to resume his place in the Potter Printing Office, two weeks ago.

Mr. M. T. Gass, Superintendent of the Michigan School for the Deaf, expects to give a lecture to the deaf, at Preston M. E. Church, on Twenty-third Street, on Sunday, May 29th.

Mrs. Henrietta Rosenfield and her daughter left Detroit for New York, last week, and they sailed for Europe on the 14th inst. They intend to be gone about a year.

Samples of the Deaf-Mute Silent Press were delivered among the deaf, which Mr. Holycross sent.

An Awful Mistake.

ONE COUPLE HAPPY, ANOTHER UNHAPPY.

Sporting News—The Pas-a-Pas Meeting—A Reception—The Courts Again.

(From our Chicago correspondent.)

Readers of our last letter were probably reminded of the story of Frederick the Great, who, when examining an Irish recruit for his army of giants, lost his temper at the absurd answers given. "Do you think I am a fool or a jackass?" yelled his majesty. "Both," calmly replied the Irishman, without understanding the question asked. Now, we hope we are neither the fool nor the jackass the printer made us appear, in regard to the item concerning Mr. Loew's appointment upon "the Committee of Arrangements for the World's Fair Exposition, a distinction seldom given to a deaf-mute." The paragraph was translated from the German in the Vienna Courier, and by the omission of our explanatory paragraph, the printer saddled the information upon us. The mistake is not without its comic features, for congratulations from deaf and hearing are pouring in on all sides for Mr. Loew. It was some time before our explanations could overcome the jealousies of our own prominent local men.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dean, of Santa Barbara, Cal., were seen at the Grand Pacific last Tuesday afternoon, having passed through the flood district, but arriving here only three hours later. The braising air of the California climate had a wonderful effect upon the interesting couple and their four children, and their cheeks were all aglow from their three years' residence there. Callers were entertained with incidents of their trip. On several occasions, the couple had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Park and Mr. Reaves. The latter owns a flourishing fruit farm of considerable dimensions, in which are planted many hundreds of orange trees. Magnificent specimens were produced in testimony thereof. He provided them with loanable, a luxurious article, for their trip, and it was only through strategy that Mrs. Dean saved some from her husband's grasp for her visitors to partake of. The couple will return in a few weeks, on their way to the New Jersey seashore for the summer. Among those we noticed present at the reception were, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. Bowes, Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty, and Mr. Loew. Mrs. Woodward is a hearing sister of Miss Franklin, of St. Louis.

Edwin N. Bowes, Sr., is just as young and energetic to enter business as he was thirty years ago. This time he figures as publisher of the World's Columbian Exposition Guide (copyrighted), with office at 73 Reaper Block. We were shown a copy, and found it full of interesting information and finely illustrated with maps and engravings. He has obtained the monopoly of the sale from the Exposition officials, and visitors who buy the red-colored pamphlet will rejoice to know a fat percentage of the money goes to Edward's pocket. Posters and diamonds over the city announce "For sale everywhere."

The engagement of John B., a younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Bowes, to Miss Lilly Purvis, of Austin, the daughter of a well known board-of-trade operator, is announced. The nuptials are fixed for July 5th.

Mr. Abe Bloom has secured a position upon the shoemaker's bench at Ponticello, Ill. Mr. Richard Long is "subbing" on the Herald.

E. J. Adams, who spread the information of his presence in New Jersey, is in hiding in this city, living apart from his wife. The marital relation of this mulatto couple ceased a month after their marriage, and the circulating report that there is a wife No. 1. in the case has caused Mrs. Adams, nee Miss Jenkins, to resort to law. It is not known whether her intention is to obtain a divorce.

Mrs. C. T. Sullivan is again upon the sick-list. Mr. Gallagher has just recovered from a serious illness, during which his popular wife bravely held the fort in school.

Mrs. C. C. Colby leaves for Joliet, Tuesday, to attend the wedding of her sister, Miss Gottschlag.

According to the Herald, Mrs. Rachel Sherard, whose real name is Sheppard, brought suit against the Home of the Friendless to recover possession of a child of hers, left during her illness, and whom the authorities refuse to reveal its present whereabouts. The writ for a habeas corpus will be heard, Wednesday, before Judge O'Connell. Mrs. Sheppard is a widow.

The mutes of Minneapolis have at last succeeded in getting up a sensation. The Herald has the following dispatch:

A lively quarrel, but a noiseless one, took place this morning on Pleasant Avenue, near Thirty-second Street. In that vicinity there lives a small colony of deaf-mutes, and one of them, Godfrey Venz, has stirred up their enmity by his behavior. This morning he began his pantomiming to one of the deaf and dumb young women living in the neighborhood, and she communicated to Patrolman Metzger, who arrested Venz. There were no words spoken except by the officer making the arrest. In court when Venz was brought up for trial the silence was thick enough to cut in solid chunks, as all the witnesses were deaf and dumb and the testimony had to be written out in full. Then the tablet was passed from one witness to the other and each in turn read what the others had written and crossed out the falsehoods which they alleged the others had told. After "summing up the testimony," Judge Mahoney dismissed Venz, but warned that if he was ever seen near the young woman's home again he would go up for sixty days.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Berg are early in the field to announce their summer plans. As usual, they will take up their residence here. This Indianapolis couple are completely in the clutches of the tennis craze, and express their wish that the old Queen Isabelle Club will be re-organized.

WANTED.—An A 1 baseball pitcher. Apply to Manager C. C. Codman, of the Pas-a-Pas Baseball Club.

John H. Howlett, "The champion of the world," showed the editorial stuff he is made of last Saturday night, and successfully demonstrated the way he rid the office of the defunct Zepi from spring poetry fiends. A ten round fight with bare knuckles was arranged between himself and a white man named Smith, for a purse of $100 and the gate receipts. After several rounds Smith was knocked senseless. The spectators had a narrow escape from arrest. A patrol wagon came dashing down the street as the crowd dispersed. According to the information given out, another battle with a man named Stewart is fixed for next week.

At the special meeting of the club Saturday, half of the revision of the Constitution was gone over. Among the noticeable changes are the creation of two Vice-Presidents. The Librarian becomes a member of the Board of Directors. Initiation fees are advanced to two dollars. The annual election will be held in December hereafter, and the installation of the new officers in January. Sharp tilts were frequent.

C. C. Codman has embarked in the photographic business, where he expects to make money by the sweat of his brow, in addition to his present occupation as machinist. He will be in partnership with another.

The ladies are talking of organizing a society, whether as a sewing, social, gossiping or literary circle, will not be known until the scheme is hatched.

Credit should be given to whom credit is due. We plainly stated a month ago that Mr. Parkinson was born at Elizabethport, Me.

Now that they have a Justice of the Peace, the Boston mutes can adjust their numerous disputes readily. May the holy air they breathe be purer.

Prof. Seliney's Discourse.

COMING FESTIVITIES—NOTES.

(From our Boston Correspondent.)

The Boston Society room was well crowded yesterday, when Prof. F. L. Seliney, of Rome, N. Y., officiated, the subject being a text from the Bible concerning Naman, who was great and mighty, but a leper. He told many shorts anecdotes in correspondence with the text, and which held the closest attention of the deaf-mutes, although it was thought by most of them to be a philosophical discourse rather than a sermon, all enjoyed it much.

The large crowd, about seventy-five in all, were attracted, not only that Prof. Seliney had never officiated here before on a Sunday, but that there were outsiders here to attend the board meeting of the New England Gallaudet Association.

Mr. E. A. Hodgson was here for a few days, having accompanied his wife and children to Auburndale, where they are to spend the summer with Mrs. Hodgson's father.

Mr. Hoy, of the Washington Baseball Club, was there, and he attracted about as much attention as did Mr. Seliney. Not a small number gazed at him with open and mute wonder, and every one wanted an introduction. He left for New York, Sunday night, where he is to play with the Brooklynites, commencing to-day.

Mr. O. Kinsman has been also.

Mr. Tillingham, who has been absent for a long time, showed traces of his hard struggle with La Grippe.

The ladies of the Mutual and Charitable Relief Society have postponed the flower party to June 1st, instead of May 30th, as it will be more convenient, and they can expect a large attendance, as on Decoration Day most of the people prefer to go somewhere through the day, and in the evening would be too tired to attend the party. It will be held in the Boston Society room. Cakes and ice-cream will be served, and one admission will be twenty-five cents.

F. H. Stover distributed circulars for the Gallaudet Society's strawberry festival, which will come off on June 15th, at St. Andrew's Hall. Admission will be thirty-five cents, and a part of the proceeds will be given to the four deaf, dumb and blind children—Helen Keller, Edith Thomas, Tommy Stringer and Willie Robin. This is, indeed, a charitable object, and the festival should be patronized by all for the sake of those unfortunate ones. The committee are Mrs. Wise, Frisbee, Orcutt, Holmes and Wheeler.

Mr. R. D. Caiger moved from Somerville to Roxbury last Saturday. Mr. A. E. Ellsworth found a comfortable place and moved to Somerville a week ago.

"Laurentius" failed to say in his last letter that the name of the Company in which Mr. A. W. Gerry is in business, is the Pemberton Engraving Co., located in Pemberton Square, Boston.

Mr. Holmes' little daughter, who had her index finger crushed by a large stone last summer, had an operation performed on the same finger a short time ago. It is healing slowly, but it seems to grow shorter than the other fingers. The little girl cannot attend school for some time on account of her finger.

After services yesterday, the outsiders who were visiting here with a number of their Boston friends, went to the United States Hotel and employed the afternoon in quiet conversation.

Mr. Hoy told a funny story of a deaf and dumb man who arrived in the old Boston & Albany depot from New York, who hired a hack and ordered the driver to take him to the United States Hotel. The driver complied by driving him about the streets for a while and then going to the Hotel. The New Yorker never found out the trick that was played on him until he reached home, when, relating his travels, etc., to a friend, was astonished to learn that the hotel was just across the street from the depot.

DIRECTORY.
For the convenience of the public, we publish in this column, in ALPHABETICAL ORDER a list of Societies, Clubs and Associations of Deaf-Mutes.
ALL SOULS WORKING PEOPLE'S CLUB & CLERIC LITERARY ASSOCIATION.
This club, organized on September 22d,
1885, and reorganized November 28th, 1888, is entirely non-sectarian, and any deaf person over eighteen years of age may join it by agreeing to pay a small sum of money monthly for its support. The purpose of the club is to supplement the instruction received while at school, by a course of lectures and other literary exercises, and the provision of reading matter of a suitable character. In addition, harmless and rational amusements are provided. The club has the use of the guild rooms in All Souls'
Church for the Deaf, Franklin Street, above
Green. The officers of the club are: Rev.
J. M. Koehler, Ex-officio Chairman;
J. M. Koehler, Vice-Chairman; Robert M.
Zeigler, President; Thomas Breen, First
Vice-President; Harry Van Allen, Second
Vice-President; J. S. Reldar, Secretary and Treasurer, whose address is No. 1819 Mar-ton Street; Mrs. J. S. Reldar, Assistant Secretary; Wm. McKinney, Assistant Treasurer; and Wm. A. Miles, Sergeant-at-Arms;
The club rooms are open Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings.
APOLLO WORKINGMEN'S CLUB.
The object of the Apollo Workingmen's Club is to advance its members in social, intellectual and physical welfare. The club occupies a whole five-roomed house at 1302 Washington Avenue, Philadelphia, and its members are at full liberty to use the house at all hours. Business meetings are held on the first Saturday evening of every month.
The officers for 1891-'92 are: President,
Wm. Henry Lipsett; Vice-President, E. D.
Wilson; Secretary, Jas. E. Morony; Assistant Secretary, Wm. F. Durlin; and Treasurer, Spencer M. Hannold. All communications should be addressed to the Secretary at 1302 Washington Avenue, Phila.

BALTIMORE DEAF-MUTE SOCIETY.
The Society holds its meetings every alternate Wednesday in the basement of the Primitive Baptist Church, on Madison St., one door east of Calvert St. Its object is for improving the mental faculties of the deaf, and of cultivating a taste for literature, oratory and debate, and of exerting good moral influence by social intercourse.
Lectures will be announced from time to time by the President. The officers are: J.
D. Wilson, President; W. M. Koehler, Vice-President; J. W. L. Unsworth, Secretary;
R. E. Underwood, Treasurer; and Jas. H.
Mooney, Sergeant-at-Arms. Secretary's address is No. 730 St. Peter St.
CALIFORNIA ASSOCIATION.
This association is a branch of the Y. M.
C. A., of San Francisco. President, Geo. T.
C. Grady; Vice-President, K. Oosuth Selig;
Secretary, Wm. H. Winslow; Treasurer, Henry J. McCoy; Librarian, Frank
B. Shattuck. Divine services first and third Sundays in each month, alternate at 11 A.M.
Regular business meetings, first Thursday in each month. Address all communications to the Secretary, Wm. H. Winslow, 223
Sutter St., San Francisco, Cal.

CINCINNATI SOCIETY.
The Anderson Society dates its organization from 1879, and has for its object the mutual improvement and social enjoyment of its members and their friends in general. It holds meetings in Anderson Hall, No. 102 West Fifth Street, every Saturday at eight o'clock
P.M., excepting the business meeting specified on the fourth Saturday of each month. Ardine Hensbeck is President, Willshire O. O'Neil, Recording Secretary, and Mrs. Alfred A. Bierlein, Corresponding Secretary. All communications should be addressed to the Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Alfred A. Bierlein, 38 Celestial Street, Cincinnati, O.
DEAF-MUTES' UNION LEAGUE OF
NEW YORK CITY.
This organization is one formed for the purpose of bringing into closer intercourse, the former students of the Institution for the Improved Instruction of Deaf-Mutes of the City of New York, and to disseminate such views as will tend to their welfare. It meets twice a month, and the President is Mr. Samuel Frankenstein. Communications are to be addressed to the Secretary,
E. Souveine, 210 Canal Street, New York City.

FANWOOD QUAD CLUB.
The Fanwood Quad Club is an organization composed mainly of deaf journeymen printers and writers for the deaf press, in New York and vicinity, but it is not confined to these alone, and admits any deaf person who has attained the age of discretion, and is of good character and intelligence.
Its object is "to cultivate fraternal feelings, to promote the social relations, and to up-
